THE COMPLEX CITY AND CONSTRUCTION OF PLACE

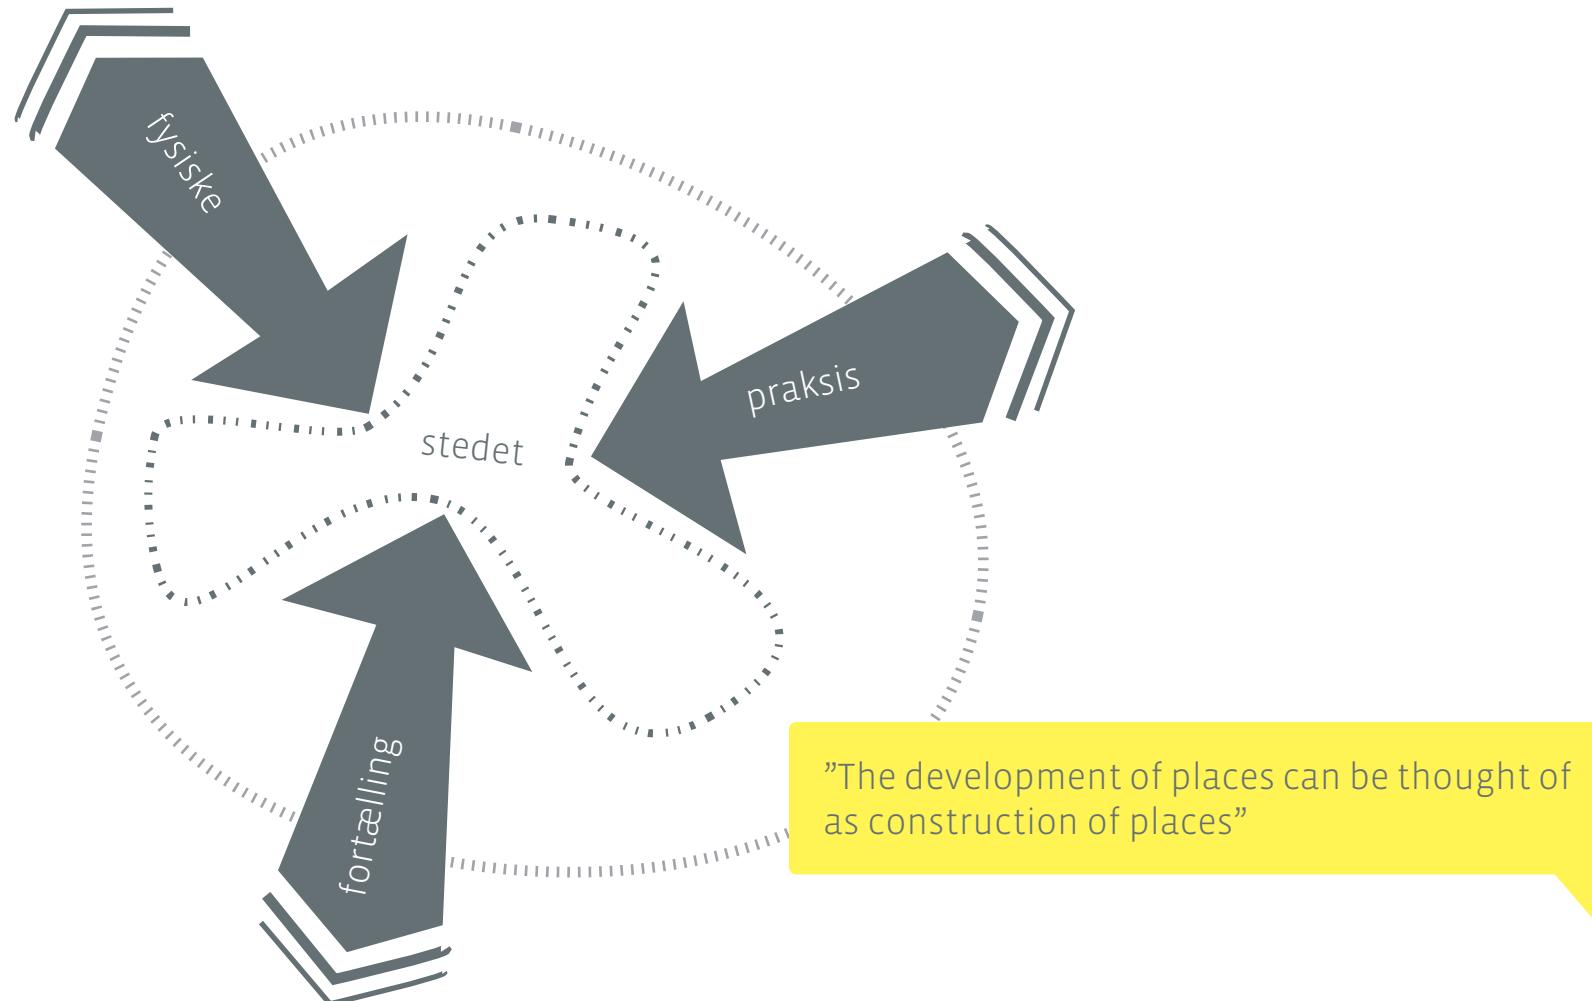

Values and core concepts

"The complexity of the city is its strength – we can develop this complexity by adding new layers and/or by working with temporary uses, which open up for the unplanned"

VISIONS IN THE MAKING

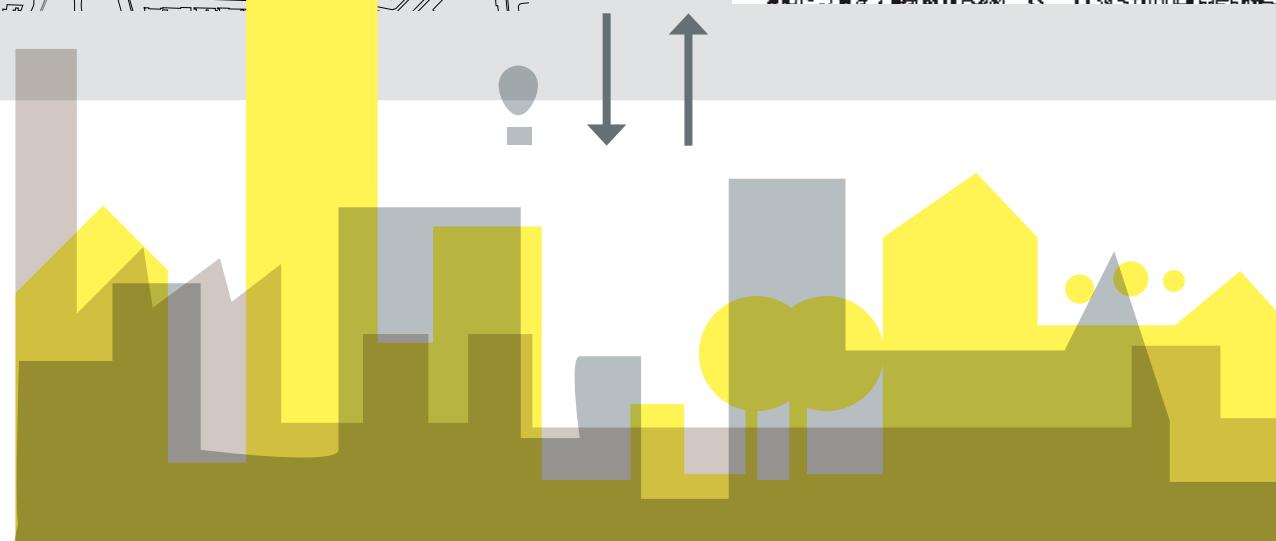

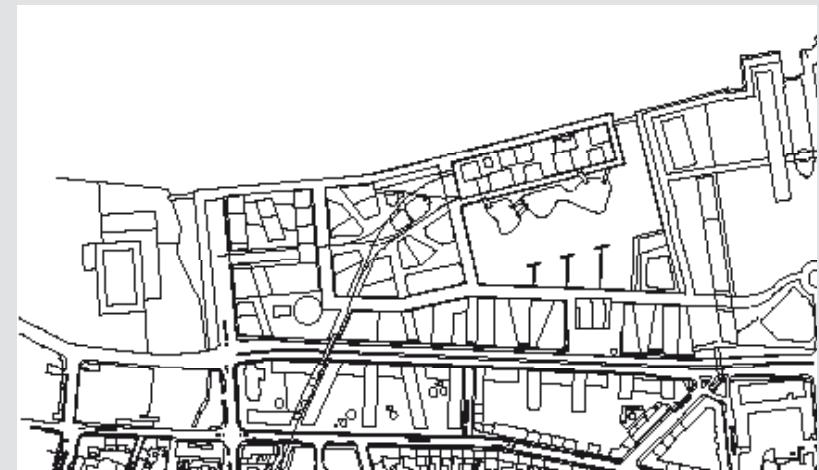

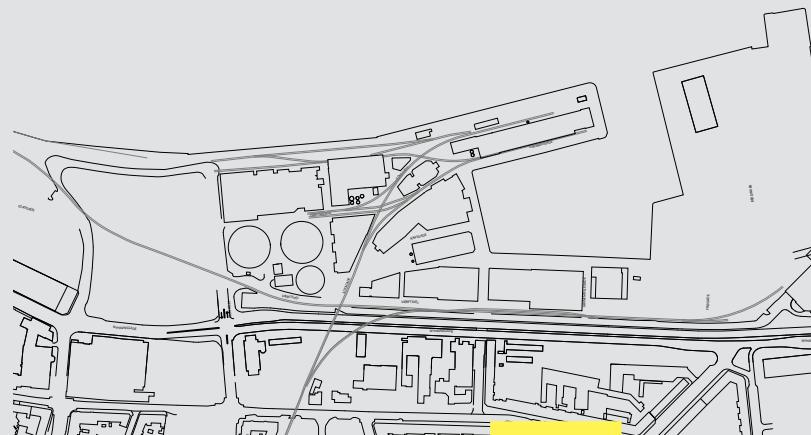

Existing situation

Visions/planning/processing in the city

Building/Future situation

THE GAP

- Establish stable and more equal power between the state, the marked and the civil society
- Connecting the “formal” planning to the actual situation on the site
- Opening for unseen possibilities
- Testing the site - visions and ideas
- Establishing and discovering network in the city
- Overcomming the gab between visions and reality

VISIONS/THE DREAM

Projects - making the dream

Project

EXAMPLE ONE: ØSTRE HAVN - AALBORG

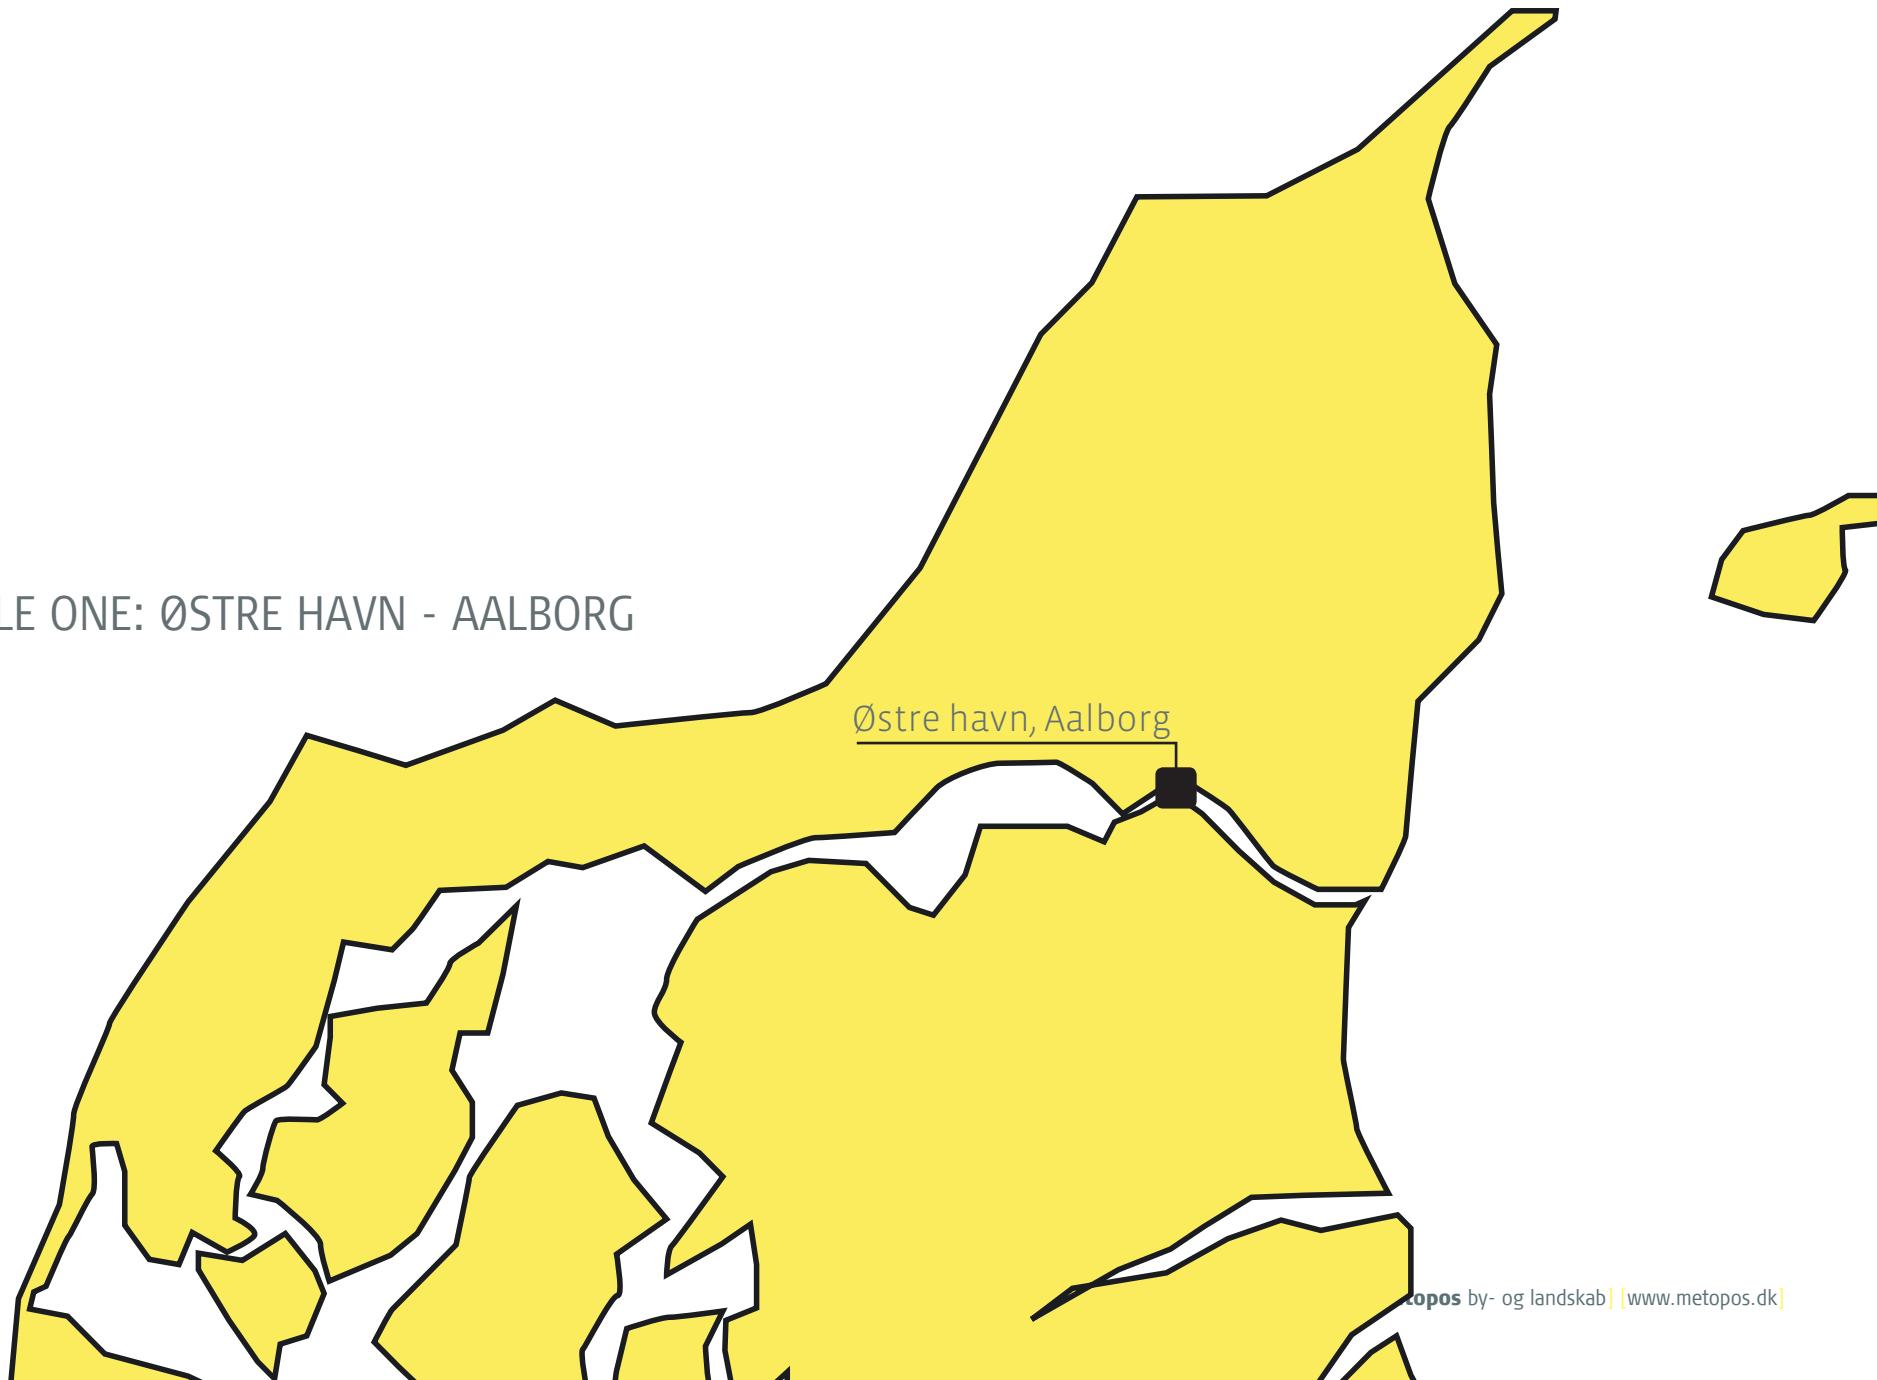

Temporary use and the masterplan

What happens if we take the debate about the development of the city out into public space? Is it possible to create a process, where the development and the planning of a place happen simultaneously? In other words: Can we kick start the development of the city through temporary use?

ØSTRE HAVN - RESULTS

The new hotspot of the city attracts the young and creative and makes Østre Havn famous

The warehouse can be used for 4 years without remuneration. The owner renovates the building

Aalborg University hires a part time consultant to secure the continuation of the project

Studios for rent

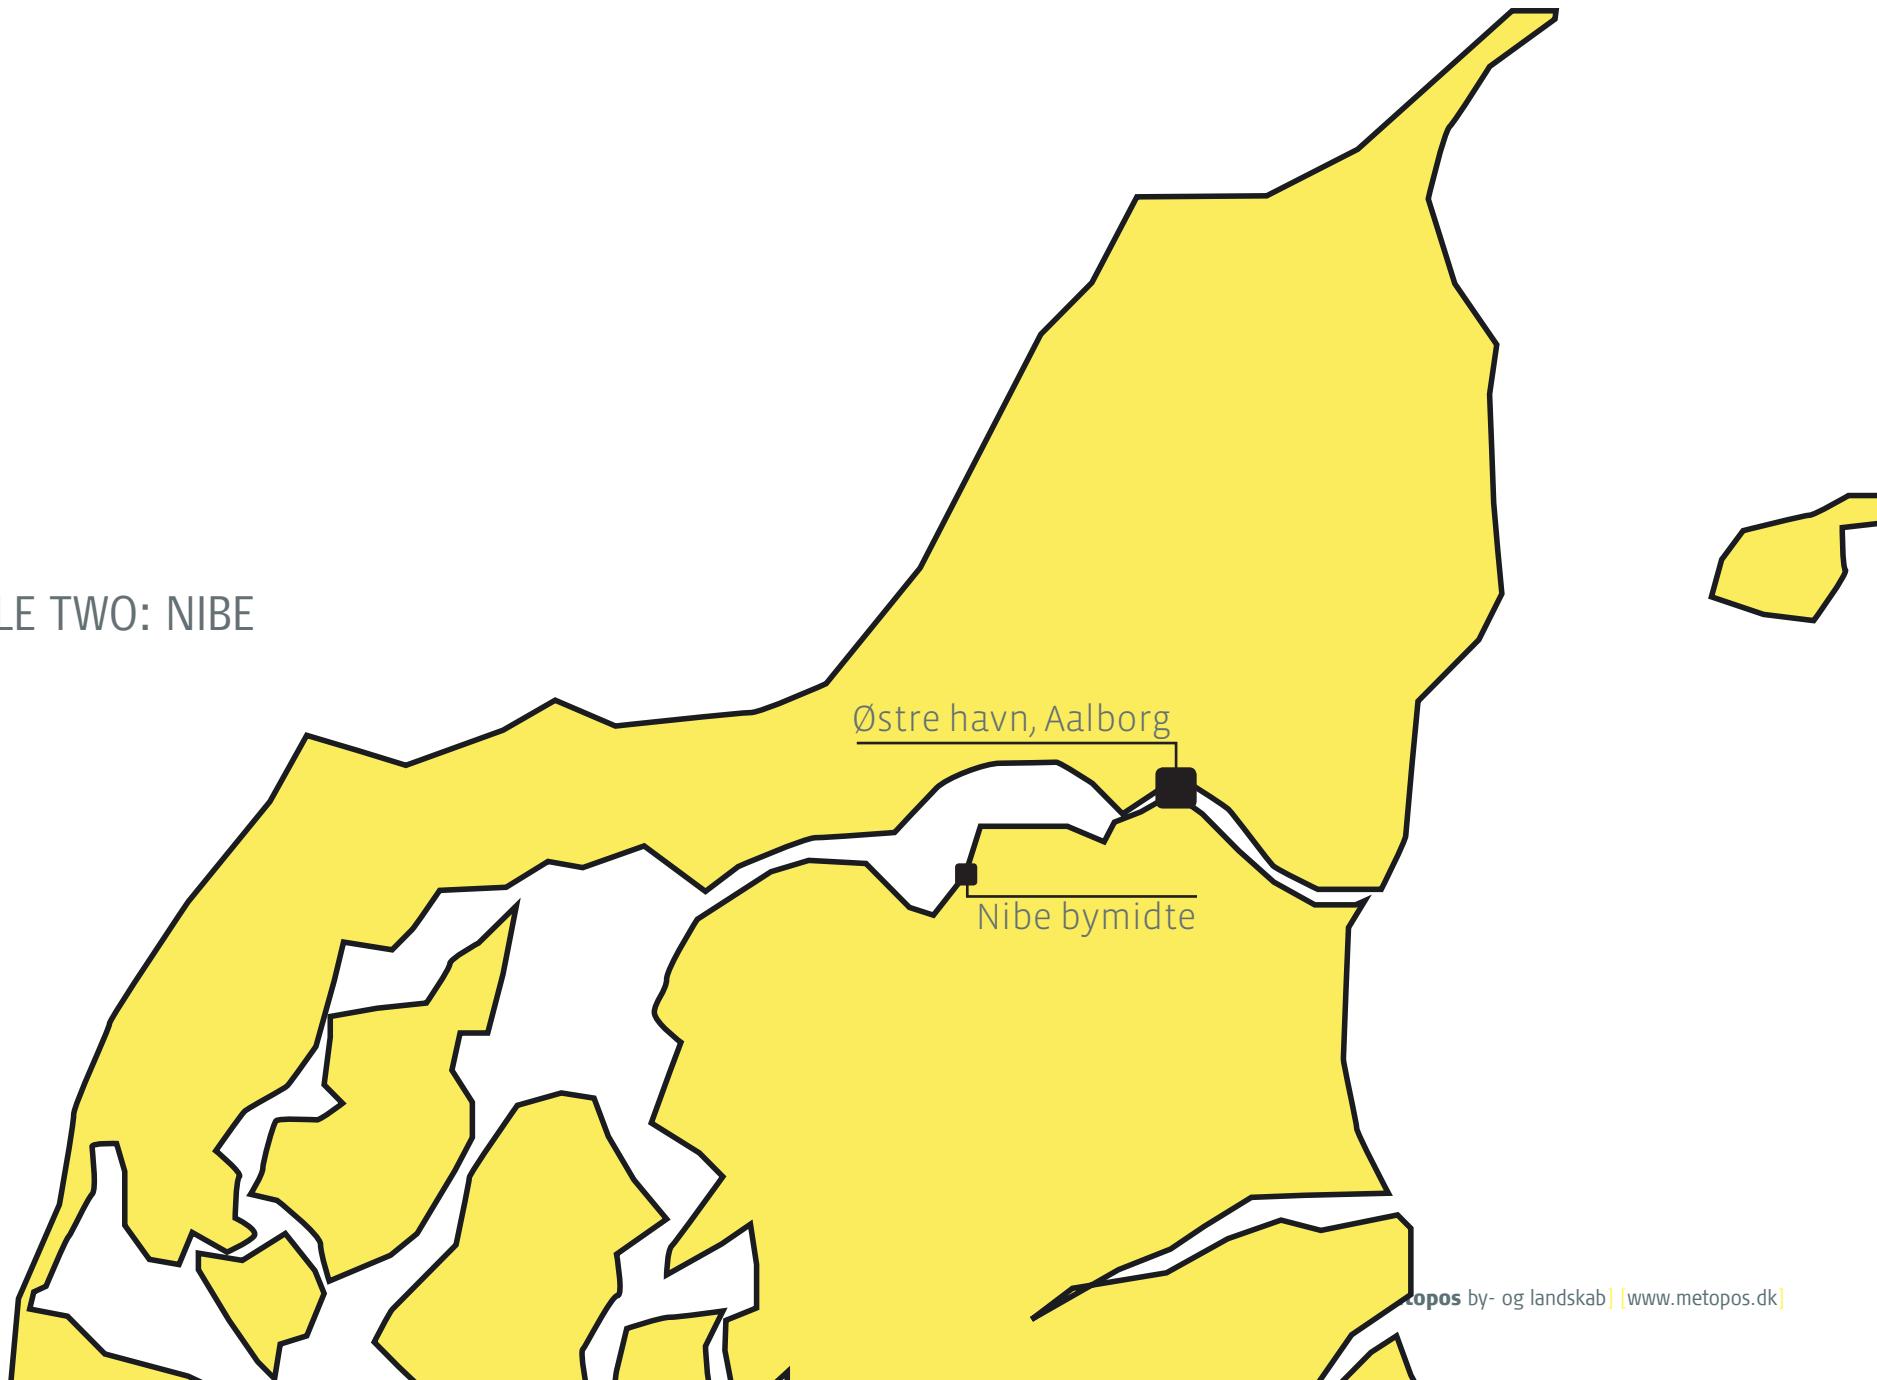

More buildings are in use

Østre Havn can be found via GPS in the taxis

The activities have created life, but will the master plan follow?

EXAMPLE TWO: NIBE

- ? The market city relived/revived
 - How do we incorporate new stories into a strong, existing identity?
